"The arbutus is now open everywhere in the woods and groves. How pleasant it is to meet the same flowers year after year! If the blossoms were liable to change—if they were to become capricious and irregular—they might excite more surprise, more curiosity, but we should love them less; they might be just as bright, and gay, and fragrant under other forms, but they would not be the ...

Rubbing it against the wall I was rewarded with a cascade of now loosened concrete pebbles that I pulled to the lip of the tunnel. Collecting them in my gloved hand I pushed my arm up a small hole in the 'roof' of my hidey hole and tossed the pebbles on top of the garbage bags. I was another third of an inch closer to being inside.

It's been brought up a few times to try to find a way to chat elsewhere, but it's always been decided No. I know and enjoy all the ladies, we're a very diverse group, but there's only a handful I would probably make the effort to keep up with "in real life". I don't mean that to be rude or mean, just being very realistic and honest.

1. In the Gospel of this radiant night of the Easter Vigil, we first meet the women who go to the tomb of Jesus with spices to anoint his body (cf. Lk 24:1-3). They go to perform an act of compassion, a traditional act of affection and love for a dear departed person, just as we would. They had followed Jesus, they had listened to his words, they had felt understood by him in their dignity and ...
